

28 JUNE 2016: all of EUROPE STANDS WITH FRANCE!

Today in France (and Belgium), the government, under pressure from the EU and the doctrine of competitiveness, wants to "reform labour laws", as has already happened in Italy, Spain, Greece, Bulgaria, Romania and the UK, and in Germany back in 2004.

Under this motto of "modernization", what is really happening is that laws to protect workers are being replaced with new regulations to protect companies: doing away with agreements that benefit employees most, increasing labour market flexibility and working hours, decreasing real pay and free time, circumventing trade unions through internal company ballots that deliver workers up to employment blackmail.

All over Europe, ordinary people are on the side of French people who are fighting to say NO to these "reforms" and demanding that the labour legislation "Loi Travail" be withdrawn.

You too can send the "Loi Travail" a red card!
